MELLON URGES TAX INCREASE

Says U. S. Must Have $266,000,000 More to Run a Year on Present Basis.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The present high tax rates must be increased approximately $266,000,000 a year if the government meets all expenditures during the present fiscal year, Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, today informed the House Ways and Means Committee. He was discussing methods of tax reduction.

Mellon frankly stated that on the present basis of estimated expenditures for the current year the reduction of present taxes was impossible. Should the tariff bill be delayed until January 1 an additional billion in internal revenue would be necessary, he said.

PRINCE MUST SMILE

EVEN IF HE IS TIRED OF POLO AND "TOURS"

LONDON, (by mail).—The Prince of Wales is qualifying for the honor of the world's hardest worker.

With a two-months' drought and a burning sun to make the strenuous life particularly unpleasant, the Prince is spending his summer on the move.

For example, one day he went to Dover early in the morning to meet the King and Queen of Belgium, returned with them to London for a state luncheon at Buckingham Palace, played polo in the late afternoon, left at night for a northern English county, and, leaving the train about 1 a. m., motored miles to Lord Derby's house, where he was a guest during a short tour.

A "tour" consists in being seen and being photographed, at cattle shows, dog shows, ball shows, at garden parties, municipal functions and cricket games. He moves almost on the run from early morning until late night, and must be always smiling.

PREPARES DATA ON GRAIN

Will Present Report to Public Utilities Commission.

Prof. O. R. Johnson of the department of rural life of the College of Agriculture, is preparing data on the cost of production and prices on the leading farm grains and hay from 1913 to date, for presenting before the Public Utilities Commission in Jefferson City Friday.

An attempt is being made by thirteen or fourteen middle western states to reduce the freight rates on grain and hay. The State Board of Agriculture, College of Agriculture and farmers' organizations of Missouri are preparing the case for this state. If the case is approved by the Public Utilities Commission it will then be referred to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D. C. on August 15.

Some time ago the commission recommended that freight rates on live stock be reduced. In case the rates on wheat are reduced a difference of six or seven cents on a hundred pounds may be made. At present the rates on hay prevent its shipment entirely.

The harvest hands are believed to have met their match in four negro soldiers just discharged from Camp Pike.

MAY HAVE NEW BUILDING AT U.

Phi Beta Kappa Men Believe School of Education Has Great Future.

The School of Education at the University of Missouri probably will have a building of its own soon, in the opinion of some of the leading educators of the state.

In the social hour which followed the initiation of new members into the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity last night, this subject was discussed. Dr. M. G. Neale and Prof. A. G. Capps expressed their belief that the School of Education here has a great future. Dr. H. J. Baker said there are more men studying problems of education at Missouri University than in the University of Michigan.

Dr. Neale said that he expected to see the School of Education in a new building of its own soon. It would be well supported financially he said, for it is as important to Missouri as the College of Agriculture or any other school. It would contain a bureau of statistics and research. "And I expect to see a large number of the best trained school men in the country in the faculty," he said. "Missouri moves slow, but it is always progressing; it never goes back."

Prof. A. G. Capps said he expected to see the School of Education of the University a graduate school adequately supported to give advanced training to all the graduates of the five state teachers' colleges. They will be parts of one great system.

Eight men were initiated into the fraternity last night. They are all actively engaged in school work in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. A social hour followed the initiation. Refreshments were served, and several informal talks were made.

FARMERS FAIR IS PRAISED

Eastern School Comments on Annual Event.

The recent appointment of Wm. T. Angle as agricultural agent in Pettis County recalls the fact that a short time ago he was plain Bill Angle, manager of the Sixteenth Annual Farmers' Fair. No other event of the year at the Missouri College of Agriculture offers such effective schooling in community effort.

The record of this event, managed by Angle, has attracted the attention of student organizations throughout the country, and from New Jersey's State University comes this comment on the fair.

"Two high schools, two colleges and the University of Missouri expended their regular work so that the students might not miss the farmers' fair. The Retail Merchants' Association of the city of Columbia, had its stores closed so that employers and bank clerks might attend. A profit of more than $1,000 was made and turned over to the Agricultural Club's second donation to the Student Memorial Union Building."

"The fair is a student study managed by a student, planned by students and executed by the Agricultural Club and the Home Economics Club."

"These facts spell co-operation and a bustling spirit. There are other big things that the Missouri Agricultural Club has done. In 1903, it organized the Missouri Corn Growers' Association which now has a membership of two thousand crop improvers. It has organized a Student Guide system which makes the hospitality of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture a real and living thing to hundreds of visitors each year. It made the first donation to the Missouri Memorial Union Building with the sum of $1,660, the profits from the Farmers' Fair of 1919 and 1920 and added to that $1,000 from this year's event."

I. D. BORDERS WILL ADDRESS MASS MEETING

Fighting Parson Was Friend of Robert ("Peaches") Graham, Former Tiger Star, in France.

10 O'CLOCK TOMORROW

Memorial Executive Committee Will Give Talks—Music by Quadrangle Orchestra.

Rev. I. D. Borders, the "fighting parson," now engaged in missionary work for the Methodist church in the southwest conference yesterday telephoned his acceptance to an invitation from Dean Jones to make the principal address at the summer term on mass meeting at ten o'clock Friday morning.

Dr. Borders is known as the "fighting parson," a title he acquired with the American forces during the World War on the western front in France.

At the opening of hostilities in 1917 the "fighting parson" refused a commission as chaplain in the U. S. Army, although he had a wife and four children, the oldest child being ten years old. He refused an offer of a secretaryship in the Y. M. C. A., and attended the first officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill. He received a commission of captain in the infantry.

On the train on his way to the training camp, Dr. Borders made the acquaintance of Robert, "Peaches" Graham, former Tiger star and University alumnus, killed in France.

The Reverend Borders and Graham became fast friends. They had been members of the same squad, received their commissions at the same time, and went to France on the same army transport. Shortly after their separation in France, Graham was killed in action at St. Die.

The "fighting parson" preached the funeral sermon of his former "buddy" when Graham's body was brought back to America recently for final burial at his home in Montgomery City. Dr. L. M. Deise said the funeral oration delivered by the Rev. Borders was a masterpiece.

The Quadrangle Orchestra will furnish music for the assembly. Several members of the faculty and C. J. Peters, chairman of the Memorial executive committee, will give short talks. R. E. Shook will have charge of the assembly.

C. J. Peters, chairman of the executive committee said yesterday, "No person will be forced to take out a membership in the Missouri Union, but every student in the University should attend the mass meeting Friday morning as it is the least one can do to support such a worthy project as the 'Missouri Memorial'."

Townpeople are invited to sit in the first balcony.

All persons subscribing to the fund before or during the mass meeting will be considered charter members and will have their names listed in the tower of the Memorial building. Voluntary subscriptions have already passed a thousand dollars. One teacher yesterday took a $200 membership.

University exercises will be suspended at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to enable students to attend the assembly.

M. U. Girl Misses Grandfather's Ninety-Ninth Birthday Celebration

Miss Donna Maize, a freshman in the University, was almost in tears today, she was writing regrets to her grandfather, telling him that she could not be present at his ninety-ninth birthday anniversary which comes tomorrow.

"I have never failed to be with Grandfather on his birthday since I can remember," she said. "But I feel sure that he will have another birthday and celebrate his one hundredth anniversary."

Her grandfather is John R. Maize of Bethany, Mo. He was one of the pioneers of Missouri, having come to this state in 1840.

"It will be a long time before I shall have another opportunity to see all the family together again," said Miss Maize. "I am writing a family history. Grandfather's children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren number 110 in all."

Miss Maize's mother died one week after Miss Maize entered the University last year and her only sister died a few weeks later.

NO ELECTION COUNT READY

Big Majority Given to Constitutional Convention in Columbia.

Although all the polling records of the special election yesterday were received this morning by C. W. Davis, county clerk, no effort was made to canvass the vote today, and the official results of the election will not be available until tomorrow. Additional unofficial returns received today, however, indicate there will be no change in the first reports of the results of the election in the county.

The returns from Columbia, Centralia and the various rural districts available give the proposal to hold the constitutional convention a big majority despite concerted opposition in a number of rural precincts where majorities were cast against the proposal. This opposition to the constitutional convention was chiefly caused by the claim that a new constitution will result in higher taxes, it is reported.

It is generally agreed that the official figures on the election in the county will show that both the amendment giving women the right to hold state offices and the amendment authorizing the payment of the interest on the $60,000,000 road bond issue from the automobile license fees received large majorities. The soldier bonus amendment, however, is considered in doubt. Majorities in favor of this amendment were cast in Columbia and several rural precincts, but the proposition received strong opposition in Centralia and other rural precincts, and it is possible that a majority against the amendment may be recorded in the county as a whole.

The polling records from all but two of the thirty-four precincts had been received by Mr. Davis late last evening. Rucker and Woodlandville being the only two missing precincts. Mr. Davis, however, would make public none of the returns, even unofficially, considering in doubt. Majorities in favor of this amendment were cast in Columbia and several rural precincts, but the proposition received strong opposition in Centralia and other rural precincts, and it is possible that a majority against the amendment may be recorded in the county as a whole.

The records from Rucker and Woodlandville were received this morning, but no effort was made to make the official count of the vote today.

PICTURE PROGRAM SHOWN

Sample of Those University Offers for Use in Public Schools.

Following the regular sing a program of educational pictures was given at the University Auditorium Tuesday night. Despite the unfavorable weather, about 350 persons attended.

The program included three educational pictures: "Robin Hood," which shows the life of that character, and something of the customs of the people of his time; "Through Life's Windows," showing the structure and functions of various parts of the eye; and "Revelation," a picture which shows what can be done with the X-ray. Thomas Forloda, Postal Employee, at Wood River, Ill., Forced to Give Up Money Pouch.

ABOUT $70,000 IN SACK

Highwaymen Flee in Automobile—Abandon It Near Woods—Posses on Man Hunt.

By United Press.
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—Three armed bandits today held up and robbed Thomas Forloda, postal employee, at Wood River, Ill., near here, and escaped with a mail pouch containing between $50,000 and $70,000. They fled in an automobile. The money was part of a several months' payroll of the Standard Oil Co. and was consigned to Wood River banks.

A few moments before the robbery the pouch was taken from a Big Four train standing at the station. Forloda declared he placed the pouch in a wagon for transportation to Wood River post-office when the three men, leaving from a car and flourishing guns, surrounded him. Forloda was forced to stand aside while the highwaymen buried the mail pouch in their car and sped away.

A police and city posse started in pursuit of the intruders immediately. The bandits abandoned their car after they reached the edge of the woods. It was discovered later that they also took a pouch containing second class mail. Farmers reported that the sacks containing the mail had been picked up.
